

“Aging Is Everyone’s Future” Tuesday in Randolph

By Sue Scheible
The Patriot Ledger

Posted May 09, 2010 @ 11:07 AM | Last update May 11, 2010 @ 07:57 AM

GREG DERR/The Patriot Ledger

Susan Peters, 57, of Weymouth with a book of her late mother’s recipes. Copies were handed out at her mother’s wake. She will speak at the Aging is Everyone’s Future conference Tuesday.

BRAINTREE — Supper reservations have closed, but there are still openings for people to attend South Shore Elder Services program, “Aging Is Everyone’s Future,” Tuesday evening from 5 to 8:30 p.m. at Lombardo’s in Randolph.

The theme will be how people in their 40s, 50s and 60s can fit caregiving into busy lives.

A panel of four successful business people will share their perspectives on caring for a family member while building busy careers.

The four panelists are: Susan Peters, of Mount Vernon Mortgage, Lynda Chuckran of the Welch Healthcare & Retirement Group, Laura Willis of Willis-Works Communication & Gen-Sights, and Harrison Stebbins of Amazing Grace Private Home Care. Kate Granigan of Overlook C.A.R.E. will moderate.

The evening will also include information booths and a raffle. The reservations for the light supper have closed, but last-minute walk-ins are welcome to join the complete program.

There is no charge for attending the program, but a voluntary donation of $15 is requested. The proceeds will benefit the agency’s Special Needs Fund, for elders without basic necessities such as food, clothing and fuel.

For information, call 781-848-3939, Ext. 351.

Read more about the program.

Copyright 2010 The Patriot Ledger. Some rights reserved.