

TESTIMONIAL

June 2, 2006

I have known Dan Sampson going on a year and a half now, and it seems like its been twelve and a half years! The mutual respect we have for each other is refreshing. In addition, Mr. Samson is a strong believer in courtesy. His concern for my best welfare, has far exceeded what one might call good business sense. For example in seeking to find the most suitable mortgage, he invariably presents multiple scenarios to be examined. His patience and perseverance are noticeable and important characteristics, as he explains the various features of the program at hand.

When Dan was in the process of helping my wife and I to get a mortgage in 2005, he interacted with the seller periodically. This seller asked me, "Where did you find this guy, Dan!?". He said that Mr. Samson was prompt in providing information, and that their communication was pleasant. And if my memory serves me well, he was thinking of referring clients to Dan.

What takes the cake, however, is how Dan Samson was willing to have me independently investigate another lender for a 2 nd mortgage because he thought I could possibly do better. There is a saying which says, "Love does not seek its own." Love was definitely demonstrated here.

I enthusiastically and sincerely recommend Dan Samson, not only if you need help with mortgages, but also as a friend.
